EXHIBITOR HIGHLIGHTS DURING INK!

Resa Blatman's "Dark Sea" Installation | Child's Gallery

Multi-media artist Resa Blatman will transform part of Childs Gallery's suite at INK Miami into "Dark Sea", an immersive waterscape environment for fair-goers to explore. Resa Blatman is a Somerville-based visual artist who specializes in contemporary projects inspired by nature and climate change. Her work is based in painting and drawing and offers the viewer a multi-faceted experience via the undulations and movement of the paint and three-dimensional forms, creating an opportunity for contemplation and a deeper look at the overwhelming changes to our planet. The delicate and ominous drawings, captivating installations, and lush paintings evolve through the documentation of occurrences such as bird migration, melting glaciers and rising tides, coral bleaching, oil spills and plastic ocean pollution, and their effect on—and transformation of—our landscape and natural resources. To reflect this concept visually, the installations are often littered with forms that mimic coral, seaweed, and flora—they are cut, poured, layered, and constructed into swirling three-dimensional waterscapes.

New Work by Darius Steward | Thomas French Fine Art

Thomas French Fine Art is presenting new work by Darius Steward (1984) an American artist known for his figurative works of symbolic imagery on paper and for his public outreach through multi-story murals. His masterful watercolors challenge the viewer to tackle current issues as well as confront their own pasts and shared experiences, symbolically and literally, across and against racial, economic and cultural lines. By extension, portraying his family, friends, neighbors and members of the community, Steward affords us a glimpse into his personal history. He approaches a blank piece of paper with a clear vision, creating richly minimalist compositions through the use of stark negative space and saturated colors charging the viewer with personal connection and interpretation.
